CUMULATIVE INDEX OF INSURANCE MEDICINE 1983-1992

The following cumulative index is intended to include references to all articles containing insurance medicine information appearing in the nine indexed publications during the ten year period 1983-1992. It is hoped that this tool for accessing the current insurance medicine literature will promote the scientific basis for skillful medical underwriting and the methodologies useful in the practice of insurance medicine. The J.I.M. and A.A.I.M. are pleased to provide this support to the work of member specialists and as a reference source for all who have interest in insurance medicine or needs for retrieval of pertinent literature.

This index section is also available as a separate issue for distribution to company libraries, underwriting departments or other areas involved in research, documentation and support of decisions. See the advertisement on p. 18 for details or refer to the classified ad section of this and subsequent issues of J.I.M.
